preferred, 4,900. The indisposition of the general public to of the bears to cover are practically certain to result. There is no important liquidation of long stocks, and the volume of short contracts outstanding is believed to have increased materially of late. The exceptional ease of money and recent complete reversal of financial and exchange operations as between New York and London are laid especial stress on by the se ourities holding and owning interests, and, other things being equal, afford the sinews of war for a bull campaign. Meanwhile alings in stocks are practically confined to the traders on the floor of the exchange. The bears were again successful yesterday in forcing a lower level for prices, but the movement was irregular in this respect and also in point of activity, as intervals of profound duliness were alternated with spasms of animation. This condition was due to spasmodic efforts to cover shorts. The final comparative figures, however, show important fractional concessions in the railways and more material declines in some of the specialties. The reported abregards the specialties, which are subject peculiar trade or speculative factors. ndon continues to work in perhaps unpremeditated concert with the local advoates of lower prices with a more unfavorable sentimental effort than is warranted by the extent of its operations. The market opened at general concessions, which later became quite marked incidental to market. Sugar was the leader in volume of trading and lost 2% per cent., the extreme concession made in the active list. The ostensible cause of the break was the reported continued suspension of the Williamsburg refinery. Manhattan sagged 21/8; General Electric, 24; Consolidated Gas, 13; Leather preferred, 13, and various other stocks 1@1% per cent. Laclede Gas fell 21/2 per cent. in anticipation of the longtral became prominent in the closing dealings and declined 2% per cent. on selling assumed to be for the long account. The closing was sluggish and weak at the lowest price.

Railway bonds were dull and lower, but the declines were fractional and were largely confined to the inactive issues. Kings County Elevated firsts sold off 5, Burlington debenture fives 3% and Susquehanna & Western generals 2% per cent. The sales were $1,357,000. Government bonds were firm on dealings of $53,000. LOCAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Colder Weather Increasing Trade, and Prices, as a Rule, Steady. The colder weather of the last few days has perceptibly increased trade. It is more noticeible with the dry goods houses, boot and shoe men and leather dealers. And it has also considerably stimulated the provision market. As usual with the approach of the holidays, the wholesale confectioners are crowded with orders and running night as well as day forces. The druggists are having a good trade in the line of perfumeries. The grocers are selling good bills in the way of fancy groceries. All staple groceries are very firm. Contrary to expectations on light receipts and a fair demand poultry and eggs have carried a firm tone for several days past. On Commission row sales of fruits and vegetables have increased with the cooler weathmany families laying in their winter stock. Not for twenty years have fruits and vegetables been sold at so low figures. The hide market is on a down grade and while there are no changes in the quotations, dealers say an early decline nay be looked for. The local grain market is quite active. The colder weather has increased the receipts of corn and prices are easy. Receipts of wheat light, with prices strong. Oats are in moderate request and prices steady. Track bids yesterday ruled as follows: Wheat-No. 2 red, 92c; No. 3 red, 87@93c; No. 4 red, 89685c; wagon wheat, 89c.

AN OLD WOMAN AND A HEN To Say Nothing of Two Stylish Ladies and a Basket of Eggs.

Transfers, 11; consideration..... $6,050

Eggs are high. It makes no difference where the chickens lay them, several hands have to be crossed with silver before the eggs begin to grow pale around their large yellow eyes as they sputter in the frying pan with the prospect of being served for a meal. A couple of ladies living in the fashionable district in the north part of the city discussed the egg question last | Corn-Nov. week and carefully noted that the price is still slowly ascending. A woman loves to bargain, and as a result of the discussion both these ladies decided to take a train to Colfax yesterday and drive some egg bargains with the farmers' wives in the vicinity of that classic village. They went, they bargained, and they secured fifteen dozen eggs.

When the return train in the afternoon rolled up to the Colfax depot the passengers were surprised to see two fashionablydressed ladies lug a big basket filled with eggs into the car. The basket was carefully deposited in the front end of the car and the two ladies tock seats near the rear. that the apparent curiosity of the passengers might be lessened and still they would be enabled to keep an eye on their bargain. At the next station it so happened that the lone passenger was an old colored woman. who firmly clutched the legs of an ancient hen that probably was a grandmother to about sixteen generations of other poultry grandmothers. The train gave a lurch, the old colored woman sank down into the first seat with a bump, and then to her amazement she espied a huge basket of eggs near her.

"Wondah where all dem eggs done come from," she murmured, and the old hen pecked her. "'Clare 'f I didn't nearly fo'git you, dis huyah cah seat am no place foah a fowl," and with one effort she threw fun among themselves. In being transported to the egg basket the legs of the hen had become loosened so she was able to spread out over the eggs with the familiarity that betokened her an old setter. The train sped on, the old colored woman went peacefully to sleep, and the two ladies and the rest of the passengers had settled down to conversation.

Suddenly from the basket came "Cack cack-cack - cuttle - cack - cack-cack-cuttlecack," and the old hen hopped off the basket serenely and perched on the arm of a seat and cackled some more. In an instant there was a commotion among the passengers that awakened the old colored woman with "Foah heben's sake, ketch dat hen." She made a lunge; so did the hen She landed in the aisle and the hen soared the whole length of the car, landing in the lap of a fat old gentleman who was reading a paper.

"Hi out of here!" he yelled, and the hen "Ketch dat hen!" was the war cry of th old colored woman, and she sped down the aisle with a force that completely overturned a drummer who had assumed a baseball attitude waiting to knock a fowl with his cane. Again the hen soared and the women screamed, while the men threw canes at frightened hen to light on his head. It was unexpected. With a grab he seized the fowl, almost knocked down the old colored woman with it, slammed the door behind him and then stood looking through the window. The old colored woman's arms had closed about her fowl like the tentacles of an octopus, and ten minutes later the chicken lay wrapped in an old shawl with both legs tied firmly with an old handkerchief. while the owner blissfully resumed her interrupted snooze. When the ladies with the eggs got home and counted the fifteen dozen they wondered whether the farmer's wife had given them an extra egg. or, was it possible that-and then they both laughed and told the neighbors of their ex-

A FLUCTUATING MARKET

PROFESSIONAL SPECULATORS CON-TROL WHEAT AT CHICAGO.

Small Advance Scored Over Final Figures of Saturday-Corn and Oats Lower-Pork Higher.

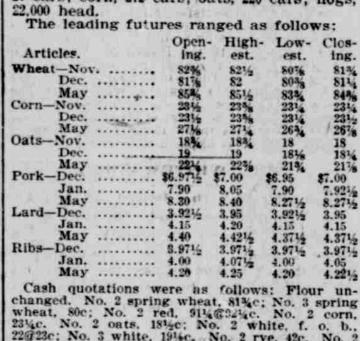

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.-Wheat speculators had all kinds of statistics with wheat to govern their actions to-day. It made a very fluctuating market with the bulls finally in the ascendency. May options closing at an advance of %c. Corn and oats were weak, closing 4c lower each. Provisions were strong and advanced 23/2010e.

Everything favored higher prices at the opening of the wheat market to-day. The Liverpool cable was higher, notwithstanding the weak close here last week and a Paris cable quoted that market excited and advancing on the cold weather and bad crop prospects, and the world's shipments were about 1.500,000 bu less than the week previous. Still another source of strength was the smallness of the domestic receipts at leading Western cities. Chicago got only 17 cars, against 514 a year ago, while Minneapolis and Duluth reported only 400 carloads compared with 770 a week ago, and 1,542 the corresponding day of the year before. The combined effect of news was that May wheat, which closed Saturday at 83% 984c, opened at from 85c to 85%c and remained substantially between those figures for over an hour. Then for various reasons, chiefly having reference to local speculative conditions, the extra bullish feeling all oozed out and by 12 o'clock the price had dropped to 84c. The chief reason for the weakness was simply lack of busilacking, most of the trading being of a local nature. The visible supply was somewhat of a disappointment, decrease being only 1,057,000 bu instead of 1,500,000 as had been generally expected. After the price had worked irregularly down to 83%c a revulsion of feeling occurred. The strength revulsion of feeling occurred. The strength of the closing cables, the fact that the official returns of the world's shipments to Europe made them only 7,417,000 bu for the week and engagements of 100,000 bu of wheat for immediate lake and rail shipment to England all appeared to turn prices upward. May advanced to 85c and was bringing 84%c when the session closed. Corn was a small and uninteresting market. Only once, and immediately after the opening did prices touch the closing point of Saturday. The cold weather was expected to increase the receipts as well as the grading. Prices followed wheat on its downward course, but falled to advance on the latter recovery. May opened unchanged at 27%c, sold a shade higher, declined to 265%@262 and closed weak at 26%c. Oats opened firm with wheat and also under a good demand. Later prices fell off and the market ruled very weak from then up to the finish. The liquidation of December was the principal cause for the decline and the break in wheat and corn also had a material effect. May started a shade higher at 221/6/221/4c, sold between 22%@ 21%c, closing at 21%c. Provisions were strong at the opening and that feeling characterized most of the session. The firmness at the start was caused by a much smaller run of hogs than ex-pected and this was sufficient incentive for a still further advance. Some decline followed in sympathy with grain, but the market closed steady. May pork closed 10c higher at $8.27½. May lard 2½c higher at $4.22½. Estimated Receipts for Tuesday—Wheat, 27 cars; corn, 272 cars; oats, 220 cars; hogs, 22,000 head. The leading futures ranged as follows:
